Congressman Neil Abercrombie gets things done in Washington DC. He understands the importance of teamwork for a small state like Hawaii. Abercrombie is the senior member of Hawaii's team in the US House of Representatives, and he delivers for Hawaii by working closely with our state's other delegates in the nation's capitol.

Here are three examples:

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION

Serving on the House Armed Services Committee, Congressman Abercrombie has secured more than $3 billion worth of military construction projects in Hawaii, making a major contribution to the forces based here and to our state's economy. He played a key role in authorizing $10 billion for Hawaii public-private partnerships, which build housing for military families and ease the shortage of affordable rentals in the civilian sector.

ALTERNATIVE ENERGY

Congressman Abercrombie is working to free Hawaii from its dependence on imported fossil fuels. He secured funding for a photovoltaic (solar) power project at Pearl Harbor, saving $40,000 a year in energy costs. He authored language in the 2005 Energy Act to speed the commercial production of ethanol from sugar cane. The result: greater energy independence, less pollution and preservation of sugar jobs here in Hawaii.

MASS TRANSIT

Hawaii's roads are choked with traffic, with analysts predicting rush hour drive time will double by 2030. Congressman Neil Abercrombie responded by winning approval for Federal aid for Honolulu mass transit. That guarantees a continuing flow of Federal funds to keep pace with local outlays as Honolulu transit moves forward.

Others talk... Neil Abercrombie delivers!
